To the READERS.

Gentlemen,

THe Learned Dr. Beal, as I find by the Philosophical Transactions of the ROYAL SOCIETY, advises, that some Old Almanacks were written in the room of many New, to give an account of past Storms, &c.— Which Advice I approve of, and would really chuse to follow, but that we live in an Athenian Age, wherein it is become so much the fashion to stuff our Annual Books with Predictions, that an Almanack without them (like a Gentleman money-less) is not regarded, unless here and there of a learned and worthy Observer.

Albeit I must aver to the World, that one real Experiment is of greater worth, and more to be valued, than an hundred pompous Predictions of what may happen, though the hissing part of Mankind will never be perswaded into a belief thereof. Nor would I have troubled my self with this obscurer part of Astrology so much, but for conformity sake, to satisfy the Humour and Genius of the Time and Age we live in, which constantly teems and grows big (once a year at least) with expectation of Stellary Novelties.

Not but that I have taken care to raise each Passage I mention from an assured ground in Art, and can affirm, that all my seeming impossible Presages of the last Year (hitherto) have been amusingly made good, and I doubt not of the like success for the future. Nevertheless, I assure you, it is not the Predictive but Experimental part of Astrology, that is my DIANA; and of this (favente Deo) the World ere long shall have a further Account from,

Yours and Astrologies Votary,

Astrological Observations.

A Fore Principium. — By the great Mercy and Blessing of God Almighty, we are arrived at a New Year, which happily begins with a new Moon. But ♄ is still in II, and Retrograde there. ♄ in II, saith Argol, dat animum maledicum, invidum, &c. And if he be thus mischievous in each single Persons geniture, what can we expect from him in general Constitutions? The old Leaven of murthering and repining will be visibly active among the Sons of Discontent; and some Men will renounce St. Paul, rather than study to be quiet. — Some Persons indeed will now be found to weep with the weather, and may (consideratis considerandis) have as just & pressing causes for it. The ♄ ♄ ♄ lets loose a Spirit of lying among us, [tis from the M. Cali, and fourth Angle,] and Malecontents will be found to libel Authority, and are met with for their folly. Tis cold weather, & there is little hope such Snakes should change their Skins. The ♄ ♄ ♄ from fixed Signs, finds out some obstinate Offenders. ♄ in Medio Cali, in * 22, puts the Magistrates upon making and executing good Laws, for the rectifying Disorders, and punishing unruly and unreasonable Persons. — O England! couldest thou be quiet within thy self, thou wert the most happy Nation in the world.

February hath XXVIII Days.

Bright Sol's in Pisces, so's the Queen of Love ;
With both dull Chronus does in quadrate move :
Thereby some Lady's Honour is distain'd,
And a great Courtiers, [Hard to be regain'd].
Stout Mars is Retrograde ; (and what of that ?)
He'l several boistrous stubborn Minds create

Astrological Observations.

Exurgat Deus, & dissipet inimici
 Were it not for our unreasonable and uncharitable humour of envying and backbiting one another, ♀ in ♀ would render England happy, and victorious also; and that much more than ♀ in ♀ could make it Melancholy, and miserably complaining. Si Deus nobiscum, quis contra nos? If the good Stars and Angels befriend us, we need not fear the Malice of the Dragon backed with all his force. The ♀♂♂ gives a glittering hopes of Advance or Preferment to a deserving Souldier or Courtier; but ♂ is Retrograde, though in dignitatibus Solis, and platiuely opposed by ♀. sub terra; a crafty, but very witty black Man privately is his Enemy, and ♂ scorning to bribe high, is defeated of his expectations. — The Sisters are but seldom found spinning Webs of Tissue to cloth the Meritorious. Good news on a sudden comes from the North-west, rejoicing the London Merchant. The Hypocritical ☐♂ casts some blemishes upon the Honour of a great Female. ♀ combat too! Verbum sat. ♀ in ♀ can libel it too, as well as if ♂ or ♀ were joined with him. Sad weather, with unwelcom news to some in great places, much discontenting them. Many false and lying Stories, and some unkind but true Reports, end the Month.

March hath XXXI Days.

The glorious Sun in Aries casts a Trine
To Mars in Leo, Jove and Venus join.
Sol joins with Jove, — But ere the Month be done,
The palefac'd Moon obscures the radiant Sun.
Such is Mans fate, true blifs he scarce can know,
But Clouds soon rise to work it's overthrow.

Astrological Observations.

At this Novilunium the ☉ and ♀ are in great reception, and soon after the Vernal Ingress they meet in noble Conjunction. The Grandees of Church and State are eminently active for the honour and support of both. And the benign Stars do not now whisper only, but speak aloud, — That a time is coming and neer at hand, wherein Kings and Governours shall be willingly and without grumbling honoured and obeyed, and the reverend Clergy had in veneration. — It is in vain, O ye stubborn Shrubs and Twigs, to contend against Oaks and Cedars. Jove carries Thunder in his hand, & thrice wretched must those be that meet the Bolts of his Anger. — Is there any great Lady or Princess, &c. in Europe, that hath ♀ for her Horoscope? To such an one the ♂♂ therein bodes much Felicity, Honour and Content, and may possibly betoken a glorious longliv'd Male Issue from her Loins, that may in time render that Nation or Kingdom happy, and its Scepter secure also, naugre all malicious hopes to the contrary. The Souldiery of the world begin to act their parts bravely, and a great Martial Prince is now victorious in his Arms and Councils; we hope this Success attends not an Enemy, but a Friend to England, and the mighty Monarch thereof.

April hath XXX Days.

April doth seem to smile, for Princely Jove

In Aries, doth cast a Beam of Love

On Chronus and swift Seribon: Th' Oak doth strive,
To keep the Rose and Eglantine alive.

But Mars squares Sol and Hermes; th'ungrateful Mind
Will not b'oblig'd, be Friendshippne're so kind.

Astrological Observations.

Fiunt in Mundo multa, incommoda, quando in uno mense utriusque Lumina Eclipsis, & precipue in his locis, in quibus est significatio eorum specialis, scilicet Hermes. — And in this Month (i.e. I am sure there wants but few hours thereof) there happens a Solar Eclipse in 21° 17', which portends much sorrow and affliction to many eminent Persons; great trouble, and many Abortions to the Female Sex; with the death of a famous Princess, or Dutches, Queen, &c. ♀ rules the Decanate wherein it happens. And at the Plenilunium the ☽ is eclipsed in 6° 11', which Albumazer says, significat agrestudines & mortalitatem. Proclus says, Horren la tonstrua & fulgura portendit, &c. There are a great many Martial Stars in m, that may afford such Portents upon an Eclipse therein very well. — Upon these Eclipses it occurs to my mind, what Nostredame upon such Prodigies happening in Cent. 3. quadr. 5. says, viz

*Pres le defaut des deux grand Luminares,
Qui surviendra entre L'Avril et Mars,
O quel cherte! mais deux grand debonnairees.
Par Terre et Mer secourront toutes parts.*

Astrological Observations.

The two Superiours separate their Sex-tile Rays. Two potent Friends, whose Foederation neither Art or Envy could divide, are near this time separated by Death. O
Death! mightiest of Monarchs! thou darest boldly to cut that Knot which others can never hope to untie.— May-flowers cover sundry Errors in some Persons, and by their fragrant redolence scatter and dispel a Mass of Melancholy from the Breasts of others.— ♂ is in ♈, an easterly Sign, Multa bella in parte Orientali: and yet the *♂ is more for Council than Adion, and tells us some great Design, capable of consternating Nations, is now contriving. Is not ♂ with Cor Leonis? and ♀ with the Stars of Auriga & Orion? Some learned Divine or Lawyer prefer'd according to merit. But one or more Merchants of great fame in the Twin-City go Retrograde, and several Officers belonging to the Courts or Customs of Princes removed. I tell thee, O secure though crafty Bribe-taker, that ♀ is sometimes Retrograde and combust, when he seems most of all dignified, and free from Storms.—
If a Battel or Sea-fight happen near this time, as I fear there will, it will be a bloody one in earnest: ♂ is in a human Sign.

June hath XXX Days.

After an almost three years stay ith' Twins,
Chronus his Pranks Northward to play begins.
 Cold Russia, Scotland, Holland, entertain
 The Fatal Guest, with all his envious Train.
Tork, VENICE, Millain, Wittemberg, you'l know,
 Whether he be a Fortune, yea, or no.

Astrological Observations.

We shall now be sensible of the effects of a ☉☿ in II. There was the like ☉ an. 1649. at the same time of the year too; and there are observing Men alive, that remember the Effects thereof. II is the great Dignities of ♀, and a Sign of eminent re- gency in this our Age.— Great Assemblies and Conventions, either Parliaments, or Synods, or both, in several Western Parts of the World, to debate of weighty Affairs both Human and Divine, of altering and abolishing old, and making new Laws in Church and State.— But an elderly Sa- turnine Heroe leaves this Life for a better, to the great gladding of some sorts of men, but consternation of others; and thereby great Councils are at a stand.—Why may not ♄ in II signify his Holiness the Pope? —But be this Demi-god who he will, his Death will be but little lamented at the present, yet after some years, when his loss is better understood, it will be bewail- ed to purpose even by his enemies. When ♄ last left II, he took his leave in a Whirl- wind of Violence and violent Action. God preserve the Twins from disturbances now. Here is promised some happy returns of Shipping, which lately were given over for lost.— Yet ♄ in Horoscopa will occasion some Shipwracks towards the North-east Parts of our own Nation.

July hath XXXI Days.

Chronus scarce got in Cancer one degree,
 But Council takes of crafty Mercury,
 How to demean himself in's progress there.
 (Those well succeed who move by Council's care);
 Accordingly squares Movors, whence doth rise,
 A blasting Sky, Storms, humane Treacheries.

Astrological Observations:

Open-breasted ♂ in ☐ of ♀ in ♀, is now become a man of plots & designs, & helps to irritate busie Brains to Acts of mischief. Many lyes spread, and several frauds promoted. Much Knavery among the dealers of the World. An apparition of Pirates upon the West or South-west Coasts. An Epidemical distemper begins to spread among us; God defend us from the tokens of his wrath. -- Albeit, it is an active, honorable & gainful time to the children of the ☉: One, or more of that glorious family arrives now to great, and perhaps unexpected, (to be sure, envied) honour and preferment. ☉ hath hitherto ever for his enemy. If there be anyone who hath the Regal sign ♄ for his Horoscope, the ☉ in ♄, & ♃ in ♄ in medio caeli, & now under the happy influence of ♄. I say, be such a man, in what Countrey soever, he will be honour'd and esteem'd of the multitude; increase in Riches, and receive particular grace from the hand of his Prince or Sovereign: and he'll deserve it too; for ☉ in ♄ gives a noble mind: ♃ in ♄ honourable action, &c. and ♄ is naturally in love with such qualities. The ☐ hitherto produces ill weather, and discovers ill men, & begets impeachments against them. God preserve the Harvest from injury: the late Eclipses begin to shew themselves.

August high XXIX days.

August would be a happy month, but that

Two great Eclipses now do operate.

God grant the Harvest suffer not ; and then,

'Tis no great matter for the Brawls of men.

Man may contend with man, and overcome,

But rich, wise, strong, all bow to Heavens doom.

Here Jove and Mars oppose, Mars hath the odds;
Brisk Duels, Bloodshed, Murther, th'Aspect bodes.

Young Hectors take advice; Drink not too high:
Nor for your Mistress quarrel strive to dye.

There may be Plots, Friends, Treachers prove in Wars:
Though Saturn Sextile Jove, he Trineth Mars.

Astrological Observations:

The cold and melancholly ♄ rising in the evening after Sun set, makes cold, sharp and pinching nights. He would do the same at other times of the year, in Summer as well as Winter, having the like relation to ☉. Let any ingenious Artist tell me what caused the cold, sharp Summer, An. 1667, and whether ♄ then, did not bear the like respect to ☉ as now?—A Retrograde and Combust ♀, denotes a great female personages losing ground; and (that which is worse) she meets with few to pity or support her under this Cadency. — A fear of tumults, ryots, uproars, &c. in some Countries subject to ♄ and its quadrangle. Let time tell you the particulars; I cannot: for Nemo particularia pradicat, is Ptolemy's golden rule; and I abide by it. Howbeit, I'll inform you, that 'tis always found unfortunate, for the guardian of any place or person, to be Retrograde, while an enemy takes possession of their charge. — ♄ now enters his exaltation, and Soldiers (unwillingly) retire into their Winter quarters, to refresh their wearied Limbs. There are four days in this month of fatal influence to many, or make Contracts in, and those are wise and fortunate that can avoid them.

December hath XXXI days.

The Planets call a Council, and debate
Which way to lessen Chronus in the State.
Hermes takes pains ith' Plot, consults with Jove,
And gets on's side th' enraged Queen of Love.
They all accord, if Chronus work be done,
T. must be by forcing him t' confront the Sun.

Astrological Observations.

The fortunate Stars being become direct, gives a flattering hopes that Decemb. may prove a kind month both naturally & politically too; and the \triangle \odot γ enlivens mens minds, & heightens their expectations after peace and quietness. Outinam! Let such Aspects be always prevalent to our Nation!—But, the cros configurations which concomitate that happy \triangle , are not easie to be bribed. Haly tells us -Si h aspexerit ☉ ex opposito, significat quod Reges habebunt adversarios, &c. Such an opposition bodes oppositions and contradictions to Kings, Princes, Magistrates, &c. and that meaner men will be apt to dislike the actions of their superiours, & also to differ among themselves; that the Nobles and Gentry shall be disturbed & divided in affection, &c. The Learned both in Church & State, under such an opposition will be vilified, & rendred of low esteem; the common vulgar man subject to hard labour, sorrow & sadness, &c. the weather will be hard & pinching, &c. & the other oppositions; do not alleviate, but aggravate these unhappineses — God preserve the English Nation, and bless the wise and merciful Governor thereof, and give us hearts to understand the happiness we enjoy under a peaceable Prince.

Edm. Dorr.

Astrological judgments on the year of our Lord, 1679.

By John Gadbury Student in Astrology, &c.

Quod felix faustumq; sit.

THis remarkable year begins with the influence of that notable \odot \hbar δ , which happened on July 31 last year, in 22 degrees of the Twins: It fell in the terms of Saturn, and Decanate of the Sun, near the 7th Angle of the Heavens. The fiery Planet δ ruled the Novena, and the popular \mathcal{D} , the Dodecatemoria thereof; whence, according to Astrologers, it's effects will be publickly famous, malicious, crafty, treacherous, and destructive. And they will fall upon and among men, chiefly, because the Conjunction happens in a humane sign; and among the greatest of men too, because they are superior Planets that are conjoyned, and that the place of the \odot is near eminent fixed Stars in the Airy Trigon, and a Regal sign ascends the Horoscope, at the time of this famous Congress.

Haly, Angelus, &c. tell us, That the third Decanate of Π is owned by \odot , and that it hath signification of oblivion, disdain, jollity, pleasure, and of giving heed to idle and unprofitable things.—As if, under the influence of this \odot , not only single Persons, but Societies of Men, and Nations, &c. [by too much credulity, and indulging of themselves, and their designs, projects and devices, plots and policies, &c. by contemning and disdainning their adversaries, and obliuiating the Presidents, Actions, and good counsel of Antiquity, in the management of their present affairs, and by suffering themselves to be led and governed by a Spirit of lying, fraud, subtilty, flattery and delusion;] were probable to bring upon themselves, communities, or Countreys, many sudden, and unexpected, violent, miseries, and misfortunes, and that of sundry kinds.

Johannes Angelus represents the very degree of this \odot : by two Birds chattering together. If there be any truth in that Cabalistical learning, it's an emblem of evil signification; for Birds signifie flattery, dissimulation and deceit. Oh! the frauds, flatteries, craft, cunning, circumvention, over-reaching, under-mining, treachery, deceit, &c. that will be promoted under the influence of this Conjunction of Saturn and Mars. The minds of men, (i. e. of such men as are signified by this Conjunction) will be prone to variety of wickedness, bosome secrets of the nearest Relations will be in danger of being exposed and laid open; counsels of the most private concernment will be apt to be divulged; the greatest Confidants are likely to tergiversate in friendship. Gemini is a double-bodied sign, and double tongues and minds will be found to practice their two-edged wickednesses and designs to purpose. Wars and Controversies, Land-battails, Naval conflicts between Kingdom and Kingdom, Countrey and Countrey, &c. Towns, Countreys, Cities and Castles betrayed. Princes and Governours bought and sold. Mercury is now a Merchant in earnest! and at the time of this Conjunction is in ♊, both separating from, and applying to ♋ in ♋, and ♎ at the same time is in ♈ of Aldebaran, or Oculus Tauri, a violent Martial fixed Star.

If at any time, or under any ♈ of the Stars, a spirit of delusion, of false and treacherous friendship appear'd among men, it must be at, and under such an one, where the moral vertues are in danger of being depraved, and warred against by craft, hypocrisie, and treacherous policy, &c. And such persons that have ♀ and ♂ conjoynd in their nativities (unless happily qualified by ♋ and ♌, &c. according to the mind of Ptolomy and Hermes) will be the wicked Agents, in bringing to pass the effects of this famous Conjunction.

Mistake me not, (Good Reader) I do not affirm that every ♈ ♀ ♂ is thus notoriously malefick; or, that every man born under a ♈ ♀ ♂ must necessarily be invidious, wicked, false and treacherous: or yet, that any man is necessitated to be, or to do ill, barely from the influence of such, or indeed, any other conjunction of the Stars; for that were to render men but a better sort of brutes, and enslave them to the destinies; not only against common reason, and the opinions of the best Philosophers in the world; but even against the holy Scriptures too. — But this I say, that Men born under such Stars, and following their sensual appetites, being first forsaken of God and goodness, (as Saul was, when he hearkened to the frauds and delusions of the Woman of the Eistle) and given over over to a wicked and reprobate life, refusing the directions and guidance of Reason and Conscience: Then, I say, this conjunctional influence will reach them, and strongly propend them to all manner of false, treacherous, and wicked devices.

Hear what Authors say hereunto.—Si quando Mars junctus fuerit cum Saturno struet quilibet alteri fraudes, & deceptiones. When Mars and Saturn shall be conjoyn'd, there will be many falsities, frauds, couzenages and deceits put in practice among men, and one man shall seek to intrap and ensnare another.—Et erunt inter homines percussiones & vulnery: And there will be much quarrelling, fightings, wounds and blows among men.—Etiā accidet regi impedimentum & labor ab homine, qui est de terrā partitionis, illius signi in quo junguntur There will also, great impediment, labour, and trouble, happen to the Prince, General, or Governour, &c. of that Countrey, Nation, or City, subject to the sign of that Conjunction, from, or by the means of a person or persons of the same Countrey, Nation, or City.

Almanfor tells us, when the two Infortunes shall be joyned, Et D congruit cum H in Latitudine (ut hic) erit fames, & mortalitas. Si vero Marti, Mutabuntur Reges, & erit multa Sanguinis effusio, & praelia in loco qui signabitur ab ipso signo, & hoc non fallit. Let these severe and sharp presages, be interpreted upon Englands enemies, whether within or without her.—But that I may not leave you in the dark, as to the places most subject to the influences of this Conjunction, I shall here subjoyn the names of those Kingdoms and Countreys, &c. concerned chiefly therein: and they be these following. Of Kingdoms and Countries, Lombardy, Sardinia, Flanders, Brabant, Wittemberg, Hircania, Armenia, Mariana, Cyreniaca, Marmarica, Egypt the lower, &c. Of Cities, Corduba, Viterbium, Cesena, Turin, Versailles, Iguaine, London, Bruges, Mentz, Kitzing, Hasford, Bamberg, Norumberge, cum multis aliis, &c. All persons and places under the Twins, will be more or less concerned in the effects of this Conjunction.

Some Astrologers opinion, That those persons and places which are distributed to the whole Quadrangle are obnoxious to the effects mention'd: but others with much better reason contend, That the immediate subjects of that sign, wherein the Conjunction is celebrated, are the only proper

Astrological Observations, 1679.

Patients under its Portents. For it will be difficult to imagine, much less to prove, that a Plague or War in China should infect or afflict England, unless by a remote consequence, that will require a strong and convictive Reason to admit off. Thus much for this famous Conjunction.

Note. It is eminently observable, and worthy our serious notice, that, as an aggravation of this Conjunctions effects, the fiery Planet Mars transits the Regal Sign ♄, from October 1678, unto almost the month of June 1679, there, beginning to prepare matter against the triple Conjunction of ♄ and ♀, 1682, &c. Behold the Concatenation of Causes, and pray God of his mercy to divert the effects.

Of the Vernal Ingress, 1679.

IT is observable in this Mercurial Age, that great endeavours have been, and are daily used to correct and improve all kind of Learning, for the bringing of it nearer to a Conjunction with Truth. — Des Cartes his, Cogito, ergo sum hath hath almost clouded Aristotles—Nihil in intellectu, quod non prius in sensu: and yet I find it difficult to apprehend much difference between them, unless I should believe that the Cartesian doth not sensibly understand what he doth, when he thinketh. Those that Mine for Truth, are certainly the happiest Pioniers in the World; and I ever wish to such the happiest success, and a freedom in their enquiries from all the fogs of ignorance, prejudice, and ill-fortune: and shall not be afraid of embracing experimental Truth from either Hypothesis, but will idolize neither. For what know I, but a third may in time start up, as probable as either?

As in Philosophy, so it is in Astronomy; we have dayly discoveries therein, but whether more true than in former Ages, time only must confirm or discover. Howbeit, if the noble Ticho, Kepler, &c. who were furnished with all imaginable advantages that Age could afford them, for the discovery of the exact places of the Stars, the Ingress of the Sun into the Cardinal points, &c. were, nevertheless, in some measure defective therein, as the ingenious Gilden proves, and as Ticho himself hath modestly acknowledged: I am of belief, that their followers may, in one degree or other, prove as unsuccessful as they, though they may probably flatter themselves with contrary hopes, as being, in this polite Age, better furnished with Instruments and Glasses.

The distance between Earth and Heaven is great, and a man had need to have, not only good Tools to work with, but good fortune too, that expects to transfer an exact Astronomy to the World.—I have known an excellent Limner draw the Picture of a Person of Honour (not hard to be hit) five or six times, and yet never a one like the substance. I have proved it at another time, elected on purpose for that service, that the same Artist drew a piece so exactly like the substance, that many of good judgment would fancy him almost ready to speak. It is Time, that is the Philosophers Stone, not only in Astronomy, but in all other Arts; and by an improvement thereof, men may do admirable things in earnest: but without that, (unless Fortune be a friend, as it is, when the Race is to the slow) nothing of excellency can be performed by any.

My present opinion is (and yet I will not say, I shall always be of the same, for time may alter both that and me) — That had not men first felt, and observed the heats of Mars, they had scarce ever minded his motion in the Heavens. And it is no very ill way for us to trace effects thorowly, if we would find out causes truly, for though experience be, by many, esteemed the Mistriss of Fools, she may prove (servus Philosophorum) a most useful Servant to wise-men. And if I can from suitable figures of Heaven, at a large distance of time, discover suitable effects to attend them, I know no reason that forbids me to esteem those figures nearly veritable.

As for example, If I find the vernal figures of the years, 1547, 1552, 1558, 1560, 1608, 1625, 1652, 1658, &c. to contain the same, or like Positions or Radiations, and also to be attended with semblable, nay, almost equal effects; Why should I not conclude those figures fairly and justly allyed to Truth? — And why should I distrust or doubt of the like verity from the same, or like, Tables Astronomical.

Now, although from what hath been said, I neither may, or will affirm the vernal figure of this year 1679, to be precisely exact, and to a punctillo true, (such a thing being impossible to be found, even by the best knowing, and most perfect among men.) Yet, I aver it to be nearly True, and owned for such by all the most approved Astronomical Tables now in use among us, viz. the Rudolphine, Philolaic, Mr. wings, Horrer's, &c. And I shall in confidence hereof, adventure to hazard my Astrological pains upon an examen of it, in the following discourse.

In this our Vernal figure, the envious Planet Saturn is simply most strong and powerful, and is therefore to be esteemed the Lord of the year, or Revolution. — Astrologers tell us, if he be Almuten of the year, he signifies a dearth or mortality among men, great scarcity of the fruits of the earth, and of all things useful for mankind. And if posited in Π , as here, he stirs up great Western winds, and a cold pinching Winter, according to the nature of the Climate. He afflicts men with tedious and grievous Diseases, as Agues, Dropsies, Scurvey, Stone, Gout, Deafness, Palsie, Leprosie, &c. — And being in a sanguine sign, he excites men to calumniate and back-bite one another, and thence issue Quarrels, Duels, and Blood shed among them. In the Hybernal season, he produces much Frost and Snow, great Rain, Tempests, &c. — In Summer-time much Thunder and Lightning, unseasonable Storms and Showers, doing harm to the Harvest and the fruits thereof — He threatens also a destruction of Birds, and the fowls of the Air in general. He likewise presages (so rich a Merchant of mischief is he when placed in II) Wars, discords, and dissensions between Emperors, Princes, &c. and many troubles to happen in the Courts of Kings, and Nobles, &c. and that one great and Noble man shall contend with another. He also stimulates Earthquakes, terrible Storms, and Hurricano's, &c. in the western parts of the World. — As he is Lord of the 9th and 10th Angles, and in $\square \varnothing$ in \times . He portends much prejudice to befall Civilians, Ecclesiasticks, &c. and irritates many busie Brains to be Libelling, and squirting out their filth and frothy wit against the Church at large, and many of the Reverend Clergy in particular. Such, I mean, whose Geni-ures harmonize with this Position.

But then, as h 's Position is thus malefick and envious, (for h is a Planet of an invidious nature.) » in $\triangle \varnothing$ and the great strength of $\odot \text{z} \text{Q}$ in the eleventh Angle, is of a much happier import and tendency. Bonatus fol. 567, says, z in the eleventh gives men, in that Revolution, much comfort and assistance from friends, with felicity and delight, &c. and that each person or friend, shall be supporting and enlarging of anothers credit and reputation; (Let men live thus with each other, and how like the Angels of Heaven shall they appear on earth?) and that men shall be faithful to each other, and by that means shall compass and enjoy the things they hope for. — And were it not, that envious h casts a \times to z thereby darkning his native claritude, this Aphorism would fully take place. — Hear what Haly says to the same, fol. 371. — Si Jupiter fuerit in undecima, &c. — When Jupiter shall be posited in the eleventh Angle of a Revolution, men shall have, good fortune multiplied unto them, and live freely and prosperously, enjoying peace and plenty, &c. Nay (saith mine Author) although they despair'd of such blessings, yet during that revolution they shall be made happy with them, and shall obtain such things that they can reasonably hope for. or expect: and to render the people more happy, The cogitations and actions of Kings, Princes, Magistrates, &c. will wholly tend to the preservation of the rights and privileges of the people, and to the procuring of their content and quiet.—Probably from this benevolent Position of Jupiter, some honourable Act or Acts of Mercy and Grace may be obtained of his sacred Majesty and Parliament, for the satisfying unquiet minds, and quelling disorders and divisions, that now too much abound in Church and State.—However, it may reasonably be hoped, that the Saturnine Menaces before mentioned, will receive a great abatement from this Auspicious Position of Υ . It being an Aphorism of Hermes,—Quicquid ligat Saturnus, solvit \Upsilon. And this I have the greater hopes of, because I find that judicious Haly says, —Si Luna fuerit in secunda Domo (as here) significat quod populos habebit illo anno bonum & utilitatem. And she being thus posited in her own Mansion, and in Δ ♀ on the 11th, and Υ disposing of them both, I see not, but that the noble influences of Υ may much darken the malignity of ♄, and turn his baser venom into an Antidote of preservation, peace and plenty; at least in this part of the year, or while this revolution remaineth.

Let the benign influences of Υ ever attend these Brittain Islands, and it's inhabitants shall be happy. Nothing can prejudice us, but our divisions. The Stars would be as much for us, and more, than against us, were it not for the unhappy ♂ of ♄ in Π lately mention'd. Howbeit, if we are not wanting to our selves, and inclin'd to create jealousies, where, and when there is no just ground; but would consider how God by his wisdom hath made every thing beautiful in its own season, and how that the things which seem most to affright and consternate us, are designed for our preservation: If the Bowels would not murmur against the Head, or the Hand say to the Foot, I have no need of thee, but that all would happily concur, and unanimously provide for the conservation and support of the whole: I say, if we could but be so happy as to consider these things calmly and seriously, we might be (as in truth we are already, though we cannot, or will not, see it,) the happiest Nation in the World; and enjoy the blessings of Providence in a large proportion, while our neighbour Nations round about, are fighting and tearing each other to pieces, burning, spoiling, and wasting one another; constantly alarm'd with the noise of Drums and Trumpets, hard Taxes, and and severe contributions from opposite parties; while we sit quietly under our own vines, and reap the fruits of our endeavours in peace; lying, as it were, upon beds of Ivory, and drinking our Wine in Bowls, never minding the benefits we enjoy under a quiet Government and a merciful Prince. Oh! England! if thou wilt be happy, esteem thy Peace a blessing.

Eclipses of the Sun in Aries, viz. his exaltation, have been by experience found of very notable signification to England; and this the Learned Camden, and others averr. And good reason there is for it; because ♊ is the general Horoscope of England, and the Sun is, in part, their significator.

The Sun hath ever signification of the heart; and this as well in Kingdoms and Nations, as Persons --- And if the heart be at any time afflicted, obnubilated, or oppressed, whether by the ☿ the natural powers; or by ♄ or ♌ the Spleen or Gall, &c. it bodes disturbance to the whole body. And the best Physicians, in dangerous disempers, ever strive in the first place to fortifie and support the heart.

There

There have been but 17 Solar Eclipses in ♊ within the compass of 140. years last past, and but 5 of them in, or neer the point of his exaltation, as this now happens to be. And those were in the years, 1595, 1614, 1633, 1652, 1671, all of them at 19 years distance from each other, viz. that Circle or circuit of time, in which the Dragons head and Tail absolve their Revolutions.

Astrologers advise, — In omni revolutione Anrorum mundi, Eclipsim solis & Lunæ non postpones. That in every Revolution of the World, we should be sure to remember the Eclipses of the Luminaries; (chiefly of the Sun,) for they are of great signification to mankind, as experience sufficiently testifies. And this Eclipse, now under consideration, will be of the more notable tendency and import, in regard it falls in the 7th Angle; a place representing wars, strifes, animosities, quarrels and contentions, &c. — They are the words of Ptolemy, Aphor. 96. Significantia Eclipses decreta sunt ejus quæ propius Cardines, &c. The effects of an Eclipse neer an Angle, are ever the most eminent and powerful. And if we enquire upon what, or whom, their effects shall fall? — Cardan, Aphor. 45. Seg. 5. tells us. — Eclipses Luminarium super Cívitates, Provincias & Regna, magis quam super private conditionis homines, aut etiam super Reges, respiciunt enim multitudinem. The Eclipses of the Sun and Moon pour down their influences upon Cities, Kingdoms and Provinces, more notably and remarkably, than upon men of mean condition, or yet upon Kings themselves; for they principally respect the multitude. And therefore it is, that the learned Peuceer exclaims, — Quantos incendit æstus, quam diu flagrantes Solis sub Ariste, &c. How many hot Summers, scorching up the field and grain, &c. did there happen after an Eclipse of ☉ in ♊? — Quos motus in orbe terrarum commovit, &c? What horrible tumults, uproars and seditions were spread over the whole world upon such an Eclipse? terrible wars, and slaughters of men, damage to the fruits of the earth, &c? — He intends those Eclipses in Aries about 1544.

And is it not worthy an observation think you, to consider that the great wars, and slaughters of men, burnings, spoils, free quarter, &c. which have afflicted poor Europe this last 7 years, were begun under an Eclipse in ♊ 1671? I affirm they were. And can assure you further, that this present Solar Eclipse clipse will rather augment, than lessen poor Europes dismay, wars and sufferings.

Under this Solar Revolution, or vernal Ingress, there is celebrated, not only this Solar defect, but a Lunar Eclipse also, viz. on April the 15 day, at 10 hours P. M. in five degrees of the noble and fruitful sign m. At the time of this Eclipse, h is posited in Septima Domo, and both Luminaries, and the active Planet ♀ afflicted by the hostile ☐ of ♂ in Angulo Mortis. Some great Queen, Princess, Empress, &c. yields to the grave under the effects hereof. God preserve the Empress of Germany, and another great Italian Dutchess, or Princess, &c.

Many more things I might observe from such famous and Copious Phænomena; but having been very liberal in my monthly observations, and wanting room to mention all things thereon depending, I shall here end my discourse of these Eclipses, and of the vernal Ingress together.

Of the Autumnal Ingress.

The

THE Horoscope of the Vernal Ingress being a sign Bi-corporeal, some Astrologers will allow that the figure thereof shall last but one half of the year; and they appoint us to erect another for the remaining part. I have discoursed a little of this matter in my Diary for 1677, and given my Reason too, why I conceive that it ought not to last longer than a quarter: and that therefore the good or ill thereby signified cannot continue longer than such a time.

[Note, that herein I do not include the effects of Eclipses, they, I know, will take up longer time to breath in, and discover themselves.] Howbeit, for want of room, am constrain'd to omit and wave my own, & follow their Hypothesis, who allow a Solar Ingress of a Bi-corporeal Horoscope, half a years Regency.

Under this Revolution, there will arise mighty discontents and troubles to mankind in general; possibly, some famous Battail, or Naval conflicts near at hand Northward, or North-east. Great suspicions and jealousies between men and their Wives, working a separation of many of them. Much quarrelling and fallshood in, and among friends; sundry Robberies at Land, the High-ways infested with Tories and Padders: many Piracies at Sea, sudden Shipwracks, &c.—Many Abortions among Women with Child; and great frauds and treacheries discovered among persons pretending piety; divers wicked and profane wretches will be very active to cast dirt upon the Clergy, and upon the Lawyers, and on the whole Ecclesiastical and civil functions together.—All these things, and more, are (or may be) collected from the great ♂ of ♀ 4 ♂ and ♀ from the third and ninth Angles, and ♀ in ♀ on the ninth; together, with ♀ his casting an opposition thither.

But, there is that which is somewhat more eminent and remarkable, viz. the ♂ 4 ♂ and ☐ of ☉ and ☿, the latter of which is from Cardinal signs: and intimate many attempts, of notable import, near our grand Havens or Sea-ports, by Pirates and Forraigners. They also portend unquietnesses at home, with many informations against sundry in great places, (the ☉ ☿ 4 ♂ are of superiour rule in the Heavens.) with a fear of imprisonments, arraignments, and death, we hope, of the King and Kingdoms enemies. One, or more very great person, or persons, dies suddenly, either by Poyson, or Apoplexy, &c.

In this part of the year, viz. on September the 24th, about 6 h.

P. M

P.M. the Sun suffers an Eclipse, just falling into the sixth Angle, a place of servitude and bondage; and at the same time, \mathcal{M} and \mathcal{Q} are in an \mathcal{S} from Angles, and \mathcal{H} casts an envious Quadrant to both the Luminaries. This Eclipse is celebrated in \mathcal{M} and the benevolent Planet \mathcal{Q} is Governess thereof. I shall not pourtray out its portents in this place, my colours are too weak, and my cloth too narrow, wherewith, or whereon to expresse them. But let it signifie what it will, it doth not directly concern England; for \mathcal{M} is in \mathcal{S} of \mathcal{V} , and I am glad I have that good news to befriend it withal. Only, I remember a Quadrin in Nostredame, which after a mystical manner seems to import its significations.

*Le Regne & Roy sous Venus eslevé, Saturne aura sur Jupiter Empire,
La Loy & Regne par Jupiter levé,
Par Saturnins endurera le pire.*

I render it briefly in this course English.
When Venus shall a Prince and Empire raise,
And Jove constrain'd to yield dul Saturn praise;
Then shall the Law and Power Jove did erect,
Strike sayl, and bow, to a Saturnine Sect.

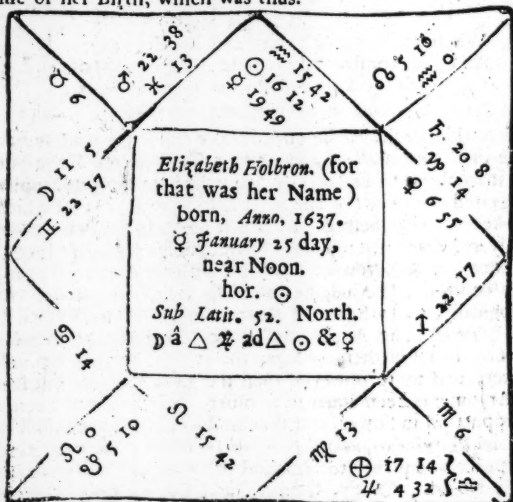

Before this Revolution be ended, there will happen a Lunar Eclipse in \mathcal{V} , viz on October 9, about 11 a Clock before Noon; but it is invisible as to us, or else it might have most unhappily aggravated the effects of the Solar Eclipse in March; of which I spoke somewhat before. As it is, it menaces the Female Sex chiefly, and that with untimely births, and sundry other inconveniences, &c. & so you see it accords with the Autumnal figure.

To conclude, The judgments of this year, have relation, Astrologically, to 17 figures of Heaven. In 14, whereof you will find \mathcal{H} or \mathcal{S} in an Angle: and \mathcal{M} or \mathcal{Q} will not be Angular in more than 8 of them.--- Ergo, the evil of the year is much greater, and more powerful than the good thereof. But had the Arguments been equal in number, still there had been a disproportion in Power, and mankind would so have found it. For, ad Destruendum, unum sufficit, ad construendum, multum. God send peace and plenty to surround this Nation, and bless the King, Nobles, Clergy, Gentry, and Commonalty thereof.
Amen.

An Astrological Experiment.

IN the year 1670, in Bow-Lane, commonly called Thieving-Lane, near the Abbey in Westminster, lodged a Woman who pretended to be haunted with an evil Spirit, which none but her self could see. It would (as she said) appear to her. sometimes, in the shape of a Dog, a Pig, Spoon, Key, and Twenty other forms, as she pretended to fancy. The noise of her condition spread far and near, and multitudes visited her to be satisfied of the report, & my self, once with my Ingenious friend Mr. P. Gill, near the Palace-yard Westminster, and another time with my good friend Mr. Abraham Sprigge of the same Parish, did visit her also, as desirous to know the truth of the report,

The Woman was of a middle stature, crafty, subtle, of a dark melancholly complexion, &c. Observing her humour seriously, I held it proper to sooth her, and found it the most exact course to please her: And by this means I obtained the time of her Birth, which was thus.

An Astrological Experiment.

Having discoursed her, I prest med to feel her Pulse, and finding them moderately equal, began to perswade her that her distemper proceeded from melancholly, and disturbance of mind, and promised to send her something to give her rest, which I afterwards did.---I perceived her to alter her Copy, when I concluded her disease natural, and soon to cry out—The Spirit was coming. When I agreed in opinion, that she might be haunted, &c. she would be pleased, and talk freely: But crossing that humour, she would soon feign her game of Fascination.—And, proper to her purpose, she had got an old Midwife, that could act the Imposture as lively as her self. And if she did not soon enough apprehend any words that thwarted her design, the old woman was ready to assist: and the watchword once given, then came such monstrous groans, faces, and pretences, as might well deceive any that were easily credulous; of which sort she had good store to frequent her upon this occasion.

It is very observable, that before she pretended this fraud, she had buried a Husband; between her and whom was but little kindness. And sometimes she'd pretend to see his Ghost appear to her, (and this perhaps not altogether false) and that she was with Child by the Spirit in his shape, after he was dead. It is not improbable, but that she might be haunted with the terrors of Conscience, as well as with the Spirit of lying and deceit; whence, what she feign'd her self possessed of at first, turn'd to a disease at last. God will not always be mock'd.

There are three things observable in the Geniture.

1. Considering 'tis a Womans, it is somewhat Popular. ☉ and ♀ are in the M. Cali, and ♃ strongly applying to a Δ of them. Her birth and condition being obscure, she was never much noted until she pretended these visions; and then she was known to purpose.

2. 'Tis melancholly ♃'s in II in the 12. and ♀ Pominus Horoscopi, and her disposer, is combust, in Domo Saturni; and six of the seven Planets are in the dignities of Saturn.

3. 'Tis flagitiously hypocritical, II ascends, and ♃ therein in duodecima domo, with oculus Tauri; and ♂ in exact □ of the Horoscope, and in * of ♄ Lord of the ninth Angle.

While she acted this Imposture, her Horoscope was under ♂ ♀ which might reasonably induce a corporal distemper, as well well as a mental disturbance. And as soon as she was plainly discover'd in her frauds, (the old Midwife conceiving also that the Trade between them would not longer continue with credit) she removed her lodging to another end of the Town and shortly after, (in a month at farthest) dyed of an Ague and a miserable disturbed mind and spirit.

And here I must take leave to protest against those Astrologers, who (with great impudence, and greater fraud) have pretended to discover and cure witchcraft by the Stars, as imposters and deceivers; as if those glorious bodies were made to be imbas'd to so inglorious a purpose, as for to assist wicked people in their malicious actions and intentions! I will presume to question these pretenders, how they think it possible, that any man can have power to hurt another, that hath none to help himself. Nil dat quod non habet. Astrology teacheth no such thing. The influences of the Stars are purely natural, and directed by natural Beams, or Aspects Geometrical: and do incline, but compel or constrain none. Therefore can they neither cause, nor cure witchcraft: nor can any man do any such feats by them, non obstante, all their fraudulent pretences. And for Corporal Infirmities, (as this womans was) which proceed from a want of a due temperature, and an evenness of the qualities or humours in humane bodies, they are so far from being occasion'd by witchcraft, that they are properly referrible to natural causes, which Astrology disdaineth not to own, as appears in this notable example.

Let not any man think that hereby I deny either Witches, or witchcraft; for I own both in the sense of Holy Scripture fairly and justly interpreted: and every one that doth not so, must be guilty of Rebellion, against both Reason and Religion. But for further satisfaction in the question of Witchcraft, &c. See the Learned webster, in his Discourse, called, The displaying of witchcraft.
